took place at Harrisburg to-day. Gen. P. will return to-morrow or Monday. SECRETARY FISH gave a dinner at his residence last evening which was attended by the members of the Cabinet and a number of Senators and their ladies. THE CABINET SESSION to-day was attended by Secretaries Fish, Belknap and Robeson, Postmaster General Creswell, Assistant Secretaries Richardson and Cowen, and Assistant Attorney General Bristow. NAVAL OFFICERS DETACHED .- Commander Le Roy Fitch has been detached from the Pensacola navy yard. Lieut. Commander A. U. Reed has been detached from the New York York navy yard and placed on waiting orders. AT THE WHITE House .- Senator Caldwell,

Alvord, Gov. Burbank and Wm. L. Scruggs, editor of the Atlanta (Ga.) Whig, were among those who called on the President this morning. THE EXAMINING BOARDS of the different departments will have a session to-morrow for the purpose of further considering regulations affecting the examination of applicants. The general rules governing examinations will be ready in the course of a few days. SECRETARY BELENAP and Chief Clerk Potts. of the War Department, were examined by the House military committee, yesterday, as to the disappearance of the Buell court-martial record from that department. The committee decided to keep the evidence secret for the present.

DISTRICT INTERESTS IN CONGRESS .- GOV. Cooke, Messrs. A. R. Shepherd, James A. Magruder, and Gen. Chipman were before the House committee on appropriations' this morning in reference to necessary appropriations for the District, which they explained at some length, but no action was taken to-day.

THE CINCINNATI CONVENTION is the absorbing topic at the Capitol to-day. In both the House and Senate the interest manifested was very great, and members eagerly sought all late telegrams. A telegraph boy entering either hall and delivering a message was the signal for a crowd to collect immediately around the desk of the recipient.

AIMEE AND COMPANY performed Offenbach's sparkling production "La Belle Helene" at the National Theater last night in such a way as to win continued plaudits from a large and fashionable audience. Aimee herself has not appeared to better advantage at any time during her best present engagement, and was ably seconded by the company. To-night they appear for Aimee's benefit in "Les Pont des Soupirs" never given in this city.

CONVICTION AND SENTENCE OF KURLUX. Mr. A. J. Falls, chief clerk of the Department of Justice, has received a dispatch from the United States district attorney at Charleston, S. C., stating that Robert Riggins, a kuklux leader, has been found guilty of conspiracy, and that the court has sentenced thirteen K. K.'s to terms of imprisonment ranging from two to ten years and fines ranging from $1,000 to $5,000. Some twenty others were to be sentenced to-day.

PESTAURANTS. nap makes a fair and square reply in the letter which was sent to the House of Representatives yesterday to the charges in regard to the sale of arms and ordnance stores by the War Department. He accounts for the sales and reception and disposal of the money returned in such a manner as to show the integrity of his admin istration. Information was yesterday received from Berlin with reference to what has been said there about the arms investigation by the Senate of the United States. The correspondent says that no remonstrance has been made as to our conduct in the sale of arms, and that there was no fear the German government would revive the subject or initiate a complaint.

THE NEWS AT THE CAPITOL .- When the news of the nomination of Greeley was received in the House, Mr. Dawes was speaking on the tariff bill, but the confusion was so great that business had to be suspended. The information was first received in the reporter's gallery, and the gentlemen therein soon notified members on the floor. Soon the space in front of the Speaker's desk was crowded by members anxious to learn the news, and those in the rear who could not hear, called upon the chairman. (Mr. Schofield), to announce the news, which he did. Mr. Hoar, of Mass., desired to know if it would be in order for him to congratulate the House on the grand triumph of protection? Mr. Randall, of Pa., "well, he is an honest man, anyhow." After some time, order was again restored, and Mr. Dawes resumed his speech.

REVERDY JOHNSON ON INDIRECT DAMAGES Hon. Reverdy Johnson has written a long letter to Hon. John A. Peters, a member of the House of Representatives from Maine, and author of the resolution proposing a withdrawal of the claims for indirect or consequential damages presented in the American case before the tribunal of arbitration at Geneva. The whol subject is considered at great length, and after stating that the only allusion to indirect claims at any time was in the protocol of May 8th where they were mentioned in order to be waived in the case an amicable settlemen should be reached—which amicable settlemen was the treaty itself, and the arbitration provided by it, Mr. Johnson says: "Under these circum-stances, what should our government do? Clearly, withdraw the claim. No other course can set us right in the judgment of the civilized world. That a blunder was committed in making it; is now admitted by all men. * * * Should the administration persevere in asserting the claim, I think that Congress should express its opinion upon the subject. That they have a right to do so I think, is obvious. Exclusively vested with the war power, whenever they shall see that the conduct of the executive is likely to bring us in controversies with other nations, which, unless peacefully adjusted, may possibly result in war, it is their duty, if they disapprove of such conduct, to announce their disapproval. THE METHODIST BOOK CONCERN TROUBLE. A report relative to the affairs of the Methodist book concern, made by Mr. Gunn, who was ap-pointed by Dr. Cariton as an expert, was made on Monday to the book committee, but voted down. It will be presented to the general conference. It affirms that the original records of the details of the business of the concern are incorrect; that the cash account is not properly kept; and that vouchers, loosely preserved, are difficult to find, the result being that monies received and expended are mainly conjectural. Figures have been changed, and the true condition of the book concern cannot be staied in the absence of the book seepers. The records of the books have not been proved for several years. INDIAN MURDERS.—A New Orleans Picayune special from San Antonia, Texas, says: "A Goncales team of six wagons, reventy-five mules, nine men and two women, was captured by Indians at Howard Mill, above Fort Clark. The train and hands were captured and all burned except one woman, who escaped. She says the Indians numbered a hundred and fifty. Gen. Merritt sent Lieut. Vincent with cavalry in pursuit, who overtook and fought them. losing his life. The news was received by the El Paso stage."

FRESH TROUBLES FOR TRIERS.—The vote in the French assembly on Wednesday, by which the executive is not permitted to appoint members of state, irritates Thiers. The government will demand its reconsideration, and should the assembly refuse Dufaure will probably resign. THE CINCINSATI CONVENTION. Proceedings at the Afternoon and Evening Sessions, Yesterday.

BIG ROW ON THE TARIFF PLANK. Upon the reassembling of the convention, at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Judge Spalding, of Ohio, from the committee on permanent erganization, reported for permanent president Carl Schurz, with one vice president and one secretary from each state and territory, and the report was adopted amid great applause. Hon. Joseph Casey is the vice president for the District of Columbia.

SPEECH OF MR. SCHURZ. Mr. Schurz advanced, the band playing "Hail to the chief," and delivered a brief speech, in which he referred to the corruption which he said is invading the public service of the gov-ernment, and said that a part of our common country, which has been convulsed by the disastrous rebellion, is suffering most grievously from the effects of the war, and that the haughty spirit of power refuses to lift those who had gone astray, by a policy of generous conciliation and the statesmanship of common sense. He deprecated the cry, "Anybody to beat Grant!" What is wanted, he said, is the overthrow of a pernicious system. He urged the selection of the best men as candidates, and believed that if men were presented whose character and names appeal to the lostiest instincts and aspi-rations of the patriot citizen, success will be certain.

MRS. GORDON RULED OUT. The committee on credentials reported that in the case of New York the contestants were not entitled to seats. In the case of California, they could not report in favor of the admission of Laura DeForce Gordon as a delegate, but, as in case of other ladies present, invited her to accept the courtesy of a seat in the convention; also that W. W. Rickerby is entitled to cast the entire vote of California, and the contestants are not entitled to seats. The report was adopted.

After a motion to proceed to ballot for candidates had been laid on the table by a vote of 557 to 148, a recess was taken until 7:30 o'clock last Evening Session of the Convention. The Chair, on calling the convention to order, suggested that the evening be devoted to speeches. Gen. Cochrane moved to proceed with the presentation of candidates, allowing ten minutes to each gentleman presenting and ten to each seconding a name. A resolution was presented for a committee of one from each state to form a national committee; also, one that in no contingency will the convention adjourn without making nominations for President and Vice President; also, that it is inexpedient to nominate any candidate affricted with a large circle of relations.

"AN APPLE OF DISCORD."

Mr. Rhodes, of Ohio, offered a resolution, which he subsequently withdrew, substantially that known as "the Tribune resolution on revenue reform," referring that question to the congressional districts, and pledging the party to the policy thus declared. [Applause.] The chair subsequently announced that the platform committee had agreed on a tariff resolution by a large majority. On the question being stated a large majority. On the question being stated on Rhodes' resolution, Cassius M. Clay depre-cated the raising of this question, which he pronounced an apple of discord.

LET'S HAVE A FAIR FIGHT!" Stanley Matthews urged the impolicy of taking the question out of the hands of the platform committee. "But," said he, "if we must have a fight, let us have a fair one," and concluded by proposing a Missouri tariff plank. [Applause.] Mr. Atkinson, of Mass., urged the convention to await the committee's report, and moved that the resolution lay on the table; carried overwhelmingly. The presentation of can-didates was then again ordered, when it was moved to adjourn to 10 o'clock to-day; which was carried, and the convention adjourned amid much excitement and disorder.

DISORDERLY CHARACTER OF THE CONVENTION. It was plain that the body was divided into two strong sections, one anxious to precipitate the immediate presentation of candidates, with out regard to the platform and the other equaly earnest and determined to stave off such action until the report of the committee on resolu-tions could be definitely acted upon. To effect the latter object all the machinery of delayresolutions, motions, speeches, and points of order-were dilligently employed to further the intention of planting obstacles in the way of the policy of making nominations in advance of the adoption of a platform of principles. MR. GREELEY'S STRENGTH.

Suspending the rules indicated that the sentiment of the majority was unmistakably in favor of the Greeley platform. The southern states voted almost unanimously in favor of suspending the rules, and the New England states largely.
COL. M'CLURE MASTER OF THE SITUATION.

Special dispatches say that whatever may be said of Col. McClure, it is certain he is entitled to the defeat of the machinations of the freetraders. Within the last day or two he has become master of the situation, and actually dictates terms to the free-traders.

SCHURZ AND THE CHAIRMANSHIP. At a meeting of the committee on permanent organization yesterday the fact was developed that Schurz courted the position of chairman-ship, and had arranged with his friends to secure it. Hon. Joel F. Asper, who represented Missouri on the committee, urged his claims, on the ground that as he was a national man, and one of the originators of the present movement. he would give weight and dignity to the convention, and that this selection would please the German element. Judge Spalding, of Ohio. chairman of the committee, in making the report, took occasion to introduce Schurz with a flourish of trumpets. Forgetting his usual dig-nity, he took off his hat and proposed three cheers and a tiger, which were given with a will. Schurz had been working industriously for Trumbull, and he had prepared a speech with which to second his nomination.

"THEN YOU'LL REMEMBER ME." Miss Laura De Force Gordon's letter to the chairman was received with roars of merriment and on one or two occasions she was subjected to gross insult. After reading her appeal the band played "Then You'll Remember Me," amid much applause.

THE ROCK ON WHICH THEY SPLIT. John D. Defrees, Judge Hoadley, of Ohio, and David A. Wells had charge of the tariff plank Hoadley and Wells are fierce free traders, whil-Defrees is little more than a revenue reformer They prepared a resolution, which was characterized last night by Col. McClure as the most damned, double-faced, Jesuitical, lying document that ever was drawn.

"SEVERAL CHAIRS AND TABLES BROKEN." The parties did not proceed to blows, but it is stated they came so near to it as to break seve ral chairs and a few tables. A large majority of the committee are free traders, and of course the resolution was adopted in face of thesfacts. When Edward Atkinson, of Boston came into the convention and stated that there was no trouble on the tariff question, he was called to order by the Pennsylvania delegates, who were stirred up to frenzy at the action of the committee. Mr. Schurz refused to hear from Pennsylvania, when the delegation of that state threatened to withdraw.

M'CLURE THREATENS TO "PUT A HEAD ON SCHURZ. A special to the Republican says:-"The incompetency of Schurz as a presiding officer did much to create confusion. His partiality was so marked that it was the subject of general com-ment. He allowed free-traders to abuse the protectionists at will. Judge Matthews was refer-ring to Pennsylvania as the pig-iron ring, and when Col. McClure arose to reply Schurz re-fused to recegnize him. After the adjournment of the convention, McClure threatened to put a head or Schurz, but the latter could not

THE REUNION AND REPORM CONVENTION The reunion and reform convention reasein-bled in Cincinnati yesterday at 3 p. m., with an attendance of about two hundred. A permanent organization was perfected, and the committee to look after the proceedings of the liberal con-vention and report to this convention was dis-pensed with. A committee on resolutions was a pointed. General Leib, of Ill., presented res-olutions from the French-speaking citizens, representing three hundred thousand voters, from twenty-two states, favoring Lyman Trun-buit for President, with a southern man for Vice President; which were referred to the committee on resolutions. The convention then adjourned The reunion and reform convention re on resolutions. The convention then adjourned till 10 o'clock to day.

Scenes and Incidents.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE STAR. CINCINNATI, O., May 3 .- At the opening of the convention this morning Senator Schurz called attention to the statement appearing in a morning paper here to the effect that he had yesterday sent a telegram to Horace Greeley setting forth that if Greeley would consent to allow his name to be used for the second place he (Schurz) could secure the nomination of Trumbull. Scharz said there was no truth in the statement whatever. The Platform.

The report of the committee on resolutions has just been made, and was read by Schurz. The platform starts out with a preamble arraigning the President of the United States and his friends and administration. It accuses the President of using arbitrary power not delegated by the constitution; that he has acted as if laws had no binding force on those who govern; that he has openly used the powers of his high office for the promotion of his personal ends; that he has kept unworthy and corrupt men around him to the detriment of the public interests; that he has interfered with the internal affairs of the states; that he has bestowed public office upon those who gained his favor by making him presents; that he has shown himself unequal to the task of the great office he fills. The remainder of the preamble is an arraignment of his friends and administration. The first resolution declares in favor of the equality of all men before the law, and holds is the duty of the government, in dealing with the people, to administer equal justice to all. Second pledges the convention to the main tenance of the union of the states, and endorses the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments to the constitution, and opposes any reopening of the questions therein settled. Third provides for universal amnesty. Fourth declares in favor of local self-government. Fifth advocates civil service reform, and reflects upon the manner in which it has been conducted by the present administration of the government. Sixth is the tagin resolution, and provides that while all the revenue should be raised to pay the interest of the public debt and expenses of the govern-ment, the whole question shall be re-ferred to the people in their Congressional districts, free from executive interference Seventh declares in favor of monetary public credit and denounces repudiation. Eighth advocates speedy return to specie payments. Nirth expresses gratitude to the soldiers and sailors of the late war. Tenth opposes all land grants to railroads and other cor porations. Eleventh treats of foreign policy. declares for peace if possible with all nations. The resolutions were unanimously adopted amid shoutings and waving of hats and other demonstrations of enthusiasm. The convention then proceeded to ballot for candidates with the understanding that the votes should be cast

Brown came forward and after thanking the members of the convention who voted fo im. declined the further use of his name, con cluding by declaring in favor of Herace Greeley for President. The announcement was received with mingled cheers and hisses. The New York delegation proposed three cheers for Greeley while the friends of the other candidates kep: up hissing and great confusion prevailed. Brown's speech was the signal for a change of votes on the part of those who stood for him on the first ballot. When the ballot was an nounced it showed the following :- Adams, 208.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] CINCINNATI, May 3.-The convention was called to order at ten minutes after ten o'clock. The reading of the journal was dispensed with at the suggestion of the lows delegation. The chair stated that the statement in a morning paper, pretending to give a dispatch from him (Schurz) to a candidate, was utterly untrue.

Mr. Gilmore, of Missouri, offered a resolution that when the convention reaches the point of balloting for candidates there shall be no formal presentation of candidates, but the convention will preceed to vote.

Mr. Dexter, of Illinois, sustained the proposition. He wanted to proceed to business and avoid mere personal eulogies. The resolution was carried.

THE PLATFORM.

Herace White, from the committee on platform, reported resolutions which were unantmously adepted by the committee. The platform was adopted unanimously with great cheering.

The resolutions declare the equality of all men, before the law; union of states and no reopening of questions settled by the 13th, 14th and 15th amendments; the removal of disabilities incurred by the rebellion; general amnesty; local self-government; supremacy of civil over military authority; respect for the habeas corpus; a return to methods of peace; the maintenance of the constitutional limitation of power; civil service reform; a single term for the Presidency; a system of federal taxation which shall not unnecessarily interfere with the industry of the people, and as there are honest, irreconcilable differences of opinion as to the merits respectively of the systems of protection and free trade, that question is remitted to the people in the congressional districts, and the decision of Congress thereon wholly free of executive interference or dictation; the maintenance of the public credit against repudiation in every form; a speedy return to specie payment; recognition of the services and sacrifices of the soldiers and, against further grants of lands to railroads or other corporations; in foreign relations it is the duty of the government to cultivate friendship, demanding nothing not right and submitting to nothing wrong. A voice.—"Three cheers for the second declaration of independence." Great cries of question, overwhelming the few who tried to get the finor to speak. The chair put the question, and the report was adopted, with loud and continued cheering. The chair anounced that the vote was unanimous. The lext order of business was, as stated by the chair, to be the nomination of a candidate for the Presidency, without a formal presentation of candidates. The roll of states was called, as follows:

A motion for a recess of twenty minutes was made anid cries of "No," "No," "Sit down." The motion was lost by an overwhelming vote. After an interval of twenty minutes, Mr. Good rich, of Minnesota, moved that in future hall lots, when the vote of states has been called, no changes shall be allowed except on the entire recall of the roll. Without taking a vote on this question, the convention proceeded to call th

HOW THE THING WAS DOSE What the Cincinnati Commercial said

CINCINNATI, May 3.—The following doubleleaded editorial in the Commercial this morning has attracted most marked attention, as reflecting the judgment of the real leaders of the libheads the article with the question, "Shall the ticket be Greelev and Brown, or Adams and Trumbull?" and then says: "If we may assume that the liberal convention will survive the pangs to which it is subjected, and pass safely through the trials incident to the adoption of a platform touching the tariff, the question will, in our judgment, arise speedily, whether the ticket shall be Greeley for President, with Gratz Brown for Vice President, or Charles Francis Adams for President, with Lyman Trumbull for Vice President. Let us survey the field and the whether this is not the state. the field and see whether this is not the state of the held and see whether this is not the stage of the case. The great combination which was made to carry this convention for Davis and Curtin has been smashed. The job was over-done, and when exposed and denounced its success became impossible. When Carl Schurz, moved by considerations above those of personal friendship, or local association, de-clined to use his great influence to promote the clined to use his great influence to promote the ambition of Gratz Brown to take the first place on the ticket, there was no use of talking any more about Mr. Brown and that place, and the Illinois candidates threw each other out of the fight. We regard it entirely certain, therefore, that either Adams or Greeley will be the nominee for the first office, and the result may de pend upon the combinations formed as to the second place on the ticket. Greeley's friends have held New York with a tenacious grasp, overbearing the wishes of a large majority; and while they have a hold on Pennsylvania they are alarmed about the latent strength of Adams in that state. In the extreme south Greeley is strong; and in the states across the Ohio, where he is not the real favorite, there has been a desperate struggle to secure for him a complimentary vote or two; the presumption of the managers being that everything depends upon the strongth shown at first; and in this he has been specially assisted by Mr. Brown's Kentucky friends. Our readers may have forgotten that some of the earliest and most significant of Greeley's letters, committing him-self to the opposition to Grant, appeared in the country papers in Missouri. In one of these, published in the Caucasian. Mr. Greeley reterred in most fluttering terms to Gov. Brown. and if we are not mistaken, prophesied the presidency for him, or words to that effect. Last night B. Gratz Brown and a member or two of the Blair family, arrived in the city. They came on the pretext that there was trouble in the Missouri delegation, such that their presence was required, and it was carefully given out that there was a combination looking to the nomination of Trumbull, and that Brown and Blair were called here to work it up. The true explanation is that the gentlemen whose late distinguished arrival we celebrate are here to turn over Brown's strength to Greeley, and with the aid of the South to nominate him—Brown consenting to take second place. Of course it was necessary that the Blairs should show their hands in this convention, and these are their code. place. Of course it was necessary that the Blairs should show their hands in this convention, and these are their cards. If we may be permitted to change the figure at once, this is the Blair bombshell. We need not tell those who have been intelligently attending to the proceedings of the Cincinnati convention that the Greeley and Brown coalition is formidable. It is so strong that we can think of but one combination that will certainly beat it, and that is Adams and Trumbull. To us it seems perfectly clear that Adams is the man for the front place; that there is no other man whose candidacy would give the liberal cause the height of tone and breadth of movement that would be imparted by Adams. The delicate question has been whether Trumbull would take the second place. He might consider it asserting, but we believe he would cheerfully make it, and, in our judgment, there is no time to be lest in giving practical effect to the alliance of the names of Adams and Trumbuil. This morning the Greeley protectionists propose to attack the resolutions about federal taxation in the platform, though it is very mild, indeed, in order to prepare the way to yield gracefully, provided Mr. Greeley is nominated. They wish to place themselves in a position of conceding something to the platform that they may demand concessions as to the ticket. After a sharp struggle and a show of magnanimity, comes the moment to ballot for a candidate for President, and add the strength of Brown to that of Greeley, giving to the latter the nomination for the Presidency, and the second place to Brown. This is the scheme that hangs well together, geographically and personally, and it will succeed if not met promptly with Adams and Trumbull.

on trial for the murder of Burroughs at Patter-son, N. J., testified yesterday that she bought the arsenic and gave it to Van Winkle Bogert, to whom she was engaged to be married, and that he (Bogert) gave the arsenic to Burroughs, which caused the latter's death.

DROPPED DEAD. Another laborer in the East river bridge caisson dropped dead yesterday.

FORTY-SECOND CONGRESS. This Afternoon's Proceedings. FRIDAY, May 3.

SENATE .- Mr. Morton moved to reconsider the passage of the bill regulating elections in the territories of Washington and Idaho. Mr. Corbett urged that the bill should be reconsidered. He said that it named a day for holding the elections different from the election day in Oregon, and the effect would be that the democrats in those territories would come over to Oregon and help swell the democratic vote. Under the existing law the election was held on the same day in the state of Oregon and in these territories. Mr. Kelly combatted the view presented by Mr. Corbett, and read from the election returns of the county contiguous to the territories nam. ed to show that in the last six years the democratic majority had scarcely varied, whether the election was held on the same day or on differ ent days than the elections in the territories

The motion to reconsider was then carried, ayes 25, nays 23, and, pending a motion of Mr. Edmunds to lay the bill on the table, the morning bour expired, and the bill went over. Mr. Cole, from the committee of conference on the legislative, executive and judicial ap-propriation bill, made the third report from that committee, which was concurred in. Mr. Morton, from committee on privileges and elections, reported House bill to relieve disabilities of S. H. Rogers, member elect of the House of Representatives from North Carolina. Mr. Edmunds objected to its present consideration, and it went over. HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES .- On motion of Mr. Hale, the naval appropriation bill and the Senate amendments thereto were taken from the Speaker's table and referred to the committee on appropriations. There was then a contest as to the order of business. Mr. Roberts moved to go into com-mittee of the whole, and Mr. Willard wanted to have the morning hour for private bills. It was finally agreed that should go on until 3 o'clock, and that there should then be a morning hour. Mr. Cox then addressed the House on the ta-riff, and first reviewed the whole subject of tariff legislation in this country. He attacked the theory of protection declaring freedom to ex-change commodities unhampered by a natural right, and cheerfully looked to the future for the abolition of all custom-houses. He claimed that when the high tariffs were put on during the war it was distinctly understood that it was a war measure; that the external taxes would be reduced along with internal taxes, and charged bad faith upon the part of the protectionists. He produced tables of prices of articles andispensible to the working classes in different countries, and claimed that the laboring men of this country, with higher wages, were forced to give more hours of labor for their necessaries under the protective system than in any country in Europe. He examined the taxes and materials used in shipbuilding, and held that it was these taxes that caused the decline in American commerce, and not the Aalbama privateers. The tax on iron not only injured our ship-ping interests but it reached to the railroads, and by increase in the cost of transportation affected the cost of agricultural productions. He reviewed the bills now before the House, and said the majority bill, so called, contained good and bad, and was entitled to commendation and censure. He was disposed to see the good in it, and accept that on the principle that half a loaf was better than none. The other bill had but one feature, and that feature was rank protection. The majority bill was scarcely expected to pass, but he believed that after it had been amended it would receive more votes when the final ayes and noes were called, than was now generally anticipated. Mr. Randail (Pa.) advocated the abolition of internal taxes, with the exception of the tax on distilled and fermented liquors, tobacco, snuff and cigars, and on banks, and appealed to re-publican members to support the recommenda-tion of their President. He urged a uniform tax on distilled spirits in lieu of the nineteen different taxes imposed by the present law, and a single tax of twenty or twenty-four cents upon tobacco and snuff, and a tax of half a cent upon tobacco and snuff, and a tax of half a cent upon tobacco and snuff, and a tax of half a cent upon cigars, the stamp to be affixed to the cigar thus avoiding the necessity of requiring newboxes to be used, and making a violation of the revenue law impossible. He called the attention of the House and country to the discrepancies in the accounts of the Treasury Department, during the period of nine years from the breaking out of the war, which he said amounted to the enormous sum of $181,000,000, and called upon the chairman of the committee of ways and means for an explanation.

Mr. Lamison (Ohio) gave notice that he would vote for every reduction proposed to the bill, and then vote against the bill itself, which he depounced as an imposition—it being no reduction at all, but simply a shifting the burden from one shoulder to the other.

Mr. Townsend (Pa.) reviewed the history of the finances of the country should the great indebt-cdues of the country abroad, which he asserted prevented an approach to specie payments.

THE NORTH CAROLINA DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION at Greensboro' yesterday nominated a ticket for state officers. A speech denouncing the liberal republican movement was cheered, and resolutions were adopted in favor of the education of children of both races at the public expense, the unity of all patriots without distinction of party, civil liberty, and faithfully abiding by the constitution of the United States as it is, with all its amendments, including emancipation and equality before the law, thus conferring equal civil and political rights upon all who are citizens of this iederal republic.
